Nancy Wynne Attends Two Debutante Teas-Print Club to Open on Friday for Season

Twhether every one who sees you (if the paper to think of you at all)

The paper to think of you at all)

The paper to think of you at all) rill not wonder why you don't have smething different to wear. However, you do have this satisfaction. For one looks much at the guests at the satisfaction of orchard Lee, Villanova, gave a flying party yesterday at the Essington Flying School at Essington. one looks much at the guests at a fairs; they are too busy looking affairs; they are too busy looking Davids, are spending a few days in New York at the Lorraine Hotel. the debutantes and receiving party.

VESTERDAY afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Howard For A Hansell. Jr., who have been motoring in Europe for two months, will return to this country today on the Olympic. Mr. and Mrs. Hansell have given up their apartment at Eighteenth and Walnut streets and will occupy an apartment at the Ritz-Carlton this winter. While the ten was given for Libby as Mrs. William Drayton Grange and her daughter, Miss Banning Grange, who have been spending a few weeks at Virginia Hot Springs since their return from York Harbor, Maine will occupy their apartments at the Wellington on Monday next. rell as Sarah, it did not mark her Morgan, are giving a ten for her on

The party yesterday afternoon was It was warm enough to go brely. It was warm enough to go guests talked and gossiped gaily on the grounds of that beautiful place. Sarah wore an exquisite frock of blue and lavender, changeable silk made on and lavender, changeable silk made on ald-fashioned lines, with a full round alirt, pointed bodice and rounded neck. The neck was edged with silver and blue lace and silver slippers and stockings inished the dainty costume. Her bouquet, which was an old-fashioned afair, was tied with pinkish ribbon. Barsh's mother, the late Mrs. William McLean, was a Miss Warden, you mow, a sister of Mr. William Warden. Libby Morgan looked sweet in a frock if delicate pink chiffon which seemed to be made over cloth of silver. Libby has the dearest face, and I think she looks very much like her cousins, Margaretta Jeanes Thayer, Gainor Baird linott and Agnes Brockie Mason.

Mrs. Warden was perfectly stunning, as sue always is. She is so pretty and as sue always is. She is so pretty and meet. Quite one of the loveliest women in Philadelphia, I think.

THE other tea was out in Chestnut

I Hill, so it was not hard to motor up from Germantown in time to be there with the crowd, which, after all, is the silly thing we all try to do. Have you erer noticed how every one looks at a tea card and says: "Um-m; oh, yes;
from 4 until 6:30; then I ought to get there about 5:15," or "Let's see; 4 to 7, well, half-past 5 is the time then?"
And every one goes at that time and the jam is something fierce, whereas soly a few who have a later or earlier singagement filter in between 4 and 5 or magement filter in between 4 and 5 or $ and 7. Aren't we funny creatures? fand 7. Aren't we funny creatures?
To go back to the Knowles' tea. It was given, of course, by Nancy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Knowles, at their place on Seminole avenue. Nancy is very pretty and looked dear in a French frock of white chiffon embrodered in silver beads, with straps of silver ribbon over the shoulders and carried down on the frock. She carried an exquisite white peacock feather in. Mrs. Knowles looked very handsome in a gown of black chiffon velvet made with panels on either side of the hirt and draped in at the waist line with a rhinestone buckle.

HEAR the Print Club will open for winter activities with a tea on Fri-ar afternoon. The Print Club is on hitmer street, near the new clubhouse the has been erected by the Penngkania Society of Colonial Dames. In. Jasper Yeates Brinton will receive. and Ansper John H. McFadden, whose marriage, you remember, took place hat summer, will preside at the ten table.

ITTLE Mary Ellen often runs in to see us and spends an hour or two. The other day, when she came in, while every one was delighted to see her, we were all pretty busy, and though we taked to her she seemed a bit distrait. Finally she remarked: "Well, I guess I'll go home." "Why, Mary Ellen, ma're only been here about ten min-mes," said Miss Anne. "Well, but I wites," said Miss Anne. "Well, but I don't like standing up all that time," aid Mary Ellen, "and it didn't no-body ask me to sit down." NANCY WYNNE.

WEALTHY PRINCE STARTS

ON AMERICAN TRIP TODAY is Scion of Postmasters General of

Holy Roman Empire Berlin, Oct. 11.—Prince Alexander of Thurn and Taxis, scion of the race of hereditary Postmasters General of the Poly Roman Empire and himself an Austrian grandee, will sail today for a tour of the United States.

Prince Alexander is a direct descend-ant of that Franz von Taxis who may be regarded as the founder of inter-national postal traffic and who received s commission in 1491 as postmaster to Kaiser Maximilian. This concession Frans and his thrifty descendants converted into a postal monopoly for the entire empire, which remained in force in Germany and Austria nearly 500 years. It was bought out by Prince Bismarck in 1867 after the Austro-Prussian war for about $3,000,000.

Prince Alexander who is now

Prince Alexander, who is now a Czecho-Slovak, owing to his estates being located in Bohemia, goes to America young and wifeless, having been divorced from his wife, who was a French woman, Princes de Ligne, shortly before the war, but the prosperous state of his family finances built up on postage stamps, frees him of suspicion of any attempt, to capture a dollar princess. His cousin, Victor, married Miss Eleanor Fitzgerald, of Uniontown, Pennsylvania.
